deugro Expands Presence in the USA with a New Office in Houston, Texas

Houston, Texas, USA, February 5, 2025 – As part of its growth strategy, deugro (USA), Inc. opens a new satellite office at the Energy Corridor in Houston, Texas, USA.

The new location is situated at 757 N Eldridge Parkway, in Houston, Texas. This satellite office represents a significant milestone in deugro USA's growth ambitions and underscores the company's commitment to providing client-centric logistics services.

The decision to establish a secondary office in the greater Houston area was influenced by the optimistic outlook for the US economy. The new office provides a modern space that can better accommodate deugro USA's expanding team and support continued growth. The Energy Corridor has rapidly become a hub for innovation and growth, with several of deugro's key clients situated nearby.

The office layout is designed to foster a more collaborative environment, featuring multiple breakout rooms and conference centers. Additionally, the prime location of the building provides convenient access to nearby attractions such as Terry Hershey Park.

For deugro's clients, the new office has been chosen for its vicinity to their offices, offering enhanced meeting spaces that cater to various needs—from small think-tank discussions to large boardroom meetings or classroom training sessions for staff members and external clients. "We believe sharing our in-depth logistical knowledge will significantly contribute to our current and future partnerships," says Gert Jensen, Senior Vice President of Operations, deugro USA.

"Our new office is a testament to our growth and our commitment to providing the best-possible environment for our team. We believe this move will not only enhance our operational capabilities but also foster a more collaborative and innovative culture," states Ryan Blewett, Branch Manager, Houston, for deugro USA.

"We understand that strategically positioning our offices ensures the high service levels that deugro's clients expect," Ryan Blewett adds.
