deugro Reinforces Its Position as a Trusted Partner for Complex Project Solutions

Pfaffikon, Switzerland, July 14, 2026 – For more than a century, deugro has supported clients in delivering some of the world's most challenging industrial projects. As project environments become increasingly interconnected, uncertain and complex, deugro is further strengthening its position as a trusted Project Solution Provider.

Today's large-scale projects demand more than the successful movement of cargo. They require a partner capable of understanding the broader project landscape, managing critical interfaces and developing solutions that support successful project outcomes from concept through execution.

deugro's Project Solution Provider positioning reflects the collective expertise, experience and capabilities available across the deugro organization. By combining global project knowledge with deep local execution capabilities, deugro helps clients address complexity, reduce risk and increase project certainty throughout the supply chain and beyond.

"The complexity of today's projects requires a different way of thinking," said Steffen Behrens, Chief Commercial Officer of deugro.

"Our clients are looking for partners who not only execute, but who help anticipate challenges, develop practical solutions and create certainty across the project lifecycle. As a Project Solution Provider, deugro brings together global expertise and local knowledge to support clients in achieving their project objectives safely, efficiently and successfully."

This positioning is represented by deugro's Cube — a symbol of how diverse expertise, specialized competencies and global resources come together through one integrated approach to support clients facing increasingly complex project puzzles and challenges. While industries continue to evolve, deugro remains committed to a principle that has guided the company for more than 100 years: helping clients overcome complexity and deliver successful project outcomes wherever projects take place.

Global Experts. One Solution.
